

Community-Based Services

For Children and Adolescents

How do our Community-Based Services help?

Community-based services give kids support in the settings where they live, learn, and grow. They reinforce skills where they are actually needed: at home, at school, with peers, and in day-to-day life.

Attendant Care | Case Management | Parent Support Groups
Peer Support | Psychosocial Groups | Supported Employment

Case Management

- Available for children and adolescents referred by a Qualified Mental Health Professional, offering individualized support in the home, school, or community to promote personal growth, academic achievement, and social development.

Psychosocial Groups

(I.E. SEKA OR TEEN GROUP)

- Helps to build social, emotional, and life skills through goals, teamwork, creativity, and community activities.

Attendant Care

- Provides individualized support to help children and adolescents build skills, follow routines, and reach treatment goals at home and in the community.

Parent Support

- Helps families engage in their child's mental health care, teach effective parenting skills, connect them to resources, and offer educational support groups.

Independent Living

- Supports youth on the SED waiver preparing for adulthood by building skills for success in employment, housing, education, and community life.

Respite

- Provides relief to children and their families on the SED waiver in order to maintain a stable lifestyle. Services are contracted with DCCCA, Inc.
